Working towards a definition of globalization

globality

Social condition with global interconnections (economic, political, cultural and environmental)
 - borders (political boundaries) are increasingly removed or irrelevant

globalization

A set of social processes that transform us from present condition of nationality to one of globality
- The process of moving toward an increasing sense of globality
- interdependence and integration with the broader world

static vs. dynamic

Static – doesn't changed, fixed, an endpoint

Dynamic – flexible, developing, changing, no endpoint (globality)

global imaginary

People's recognition (consciousness) of belonging to a global community effect

Globalization affects different people in different ways.

Ex. Technology, and access to technology, can effect how globalization effects you.
